LITTLE GIRL TESTIFIES

Adam H. Hass Committed For Court For Alleged Assault.

With tears in her eyes, Helen Ahtes, 7 years old, daughter of Joseph Ahtes, 8 North Curley street, told Justice Garland in a crowded courtroom at the Eastern Police Station yesterday of the assaults alleged to have been committed at the home of Adam H. Hass, 218 South Broadway. The child accused Hass of committing the assaults.

The mother of the child was not present at the hearing. As told in THE SUN, she was found early in the morning in the basin at the foot of Calvert street and rescued by members of the crew of the Ericsson steamer Lord Baltimore. Her condition at the City Hospital was such that she was unable to appear.

There were several hundred persons at the police station when the hearing was called and Justice Garland and Lieutenant Colbourn had to order the crowd from the building.

Little Helen has been a patient at the Johns Hopkins Hospital for more than a week and when brought to the station she was carried to the courtroom in hysterics. The matron managed to comfort her.

Pittsburg Elk Taken Sick.

While standing in the bar of the Caswell Hotel yesterday afternoon, Patrolman Joseph Leech, of the Pittsburg force, became suddenly ill with stomach trouble and fell to the floor. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he was treated. His brother, Irvin Leech, accompanied him
